

I enjoy the peace and quiet afforded by the do not call list. If I have done business with a bank or other company, I will contact it if I need something. I do not need it interrupting my private time. There is enough intrusion already.